

Change Leader Program. Learn to lead others through change.

The ability to manage people and help them navigate change is now essential to successful leadership. Relentless change can leave people feeling the effects of change fatigue and managing people in these turbulent times is more challenging than ever.

That's why the Leader's Institute has introduced our new five-day professional learning experience the Change Leader Program. If you're a leader, a catalyst of change, or aspire to a leadership role then this program is a must.

About the program.

The Change Leader Program provides a framework and new approach to leading with and without authority, mobilising others towards desired outcomes and overcoming challenges in your organisation.

This program helps you to learn how to address challenges that continue to arise in your organisation and are difficult to resolve, problems you and others continually try to tackle but can't seem to solve. Or it may be challenges involving people, where you avoid, rather than address, the issues.

The focus is on a practical model of adaptive leadership where you will learn how to distinguish what's working well for you and your organisation, and discard what's holding you back - identifying default behaviours and choosing new ways to progress. The program will evolve you and your leadership in ways that enable you to lead others more effectively through change.

Comprising interactive workshops, facilitated discussion and work-based exercises, you will practice and apply your learnings to real-life leadership challenges to:

- discover new ideas, thinking, concepts and a new approach to leadership
- build your adaptive leadership skills to help tackle complex team or organisational challenges
- gain a practical set of techniques and tools to apply to personal, team and organisational challenges
- gain more insight into yours and others' behaviours and motivations.
